Carbon Monoxide Insidious Killer, L.A. County Medical Association Warns

With cold weather comes one of the most vicious threats to human life—carbon monoxide gas poisoning, according to a warning issued by the South West District of the L. A. County Medical Ass'n. Because of its odorless, colorless and tasteless qualities, the gas attacks its victims without warning, frequently resulting in death.

The most common source of carbon monoxide gas is the exhaust from an automobile. In real cold weather, persons are inclined to drive with the windows tightly closed. The exhaust fumes seep into the car where they are inhaled. Because of the odorless, colorless and tasteless characteristics, persons breathing the fumes are unaware of the gas until symptoms develop. These vary, depending on the amount and time of exposure.

First Symptoms
The first symptom may be headache, then dizziness, muscular weakness, disturbed memory, loss of consciousness, coma and frequently death. One frightful complication, as the condition progresses, is the inability to move because of muscular weakness even though consciousness remains.

How does this strange gas act chemically? As it is inhaled, the carbon monoxide mixes with the hemoglobin, the oxygen-carrying pigment of the red corpuscles in the blood. The normal function of red cells to carry oxygen from the lungs throughout the body is essential to good health. When their purpose is impeded by conveying carbon monoxide gas, instead of oxygen, suffocation results.

Can Occur Anytime
While carbon monoxide gas poisoning can occur at any time, the condition is more acute in cold weather when there is a tendency to keep windows and doors closed.

'Stella,' Missing for 20 Years, Finally Found in Packing Case

The search for Stella is over. The original of this provocative, willowy blonde, subject of legend and myth since the turn of the century, has been found at last, and much to the surprise of the searchers, in a place where last expected, but happily, in much the same state as when she dropped out of sight 20 years ago, wistfully reclining on a soft, plush couch in the nude.

Stella is only an oil painting. Created around 1888 by the Italian artist Alver Regli, she came to America about 1893. Exhibited at various fairs and expositions around the country, she didn't become widely popular until 1915 when, at the Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco, a wily carnival barker ballyhooed her into fame with his blatant cry of "Have you seen Stella?"

Had Million Admirers
The phrase caught on and Stella gained more than a million admirers in the following years. Then just as sudden as her new found fame, she became obscure. There had been many copies of the life-size nude, some even by Regli himself when he came to America. Everyone who had a copy of the painting claimed it was the original, but this was

State Chaparral Poets to Observe Poetry Day

California Chaparral Poets will observe National Poetry Day by a poetry reading at 2:30 p.m. in the Church of the Recessional, Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale next Saturday.

The highlight of the program will be the announcement of prize-winning poems entered by the Chaparral poets in a state-wide contest sponsored by the Alpha Chapter of the California Federation of Chaparral Poets and the Forest Lawn Foundation.

Nobody Can Have More Than One Driver's License

Nobody can have two drivers licenses anymore.

You can have either a chauffeur's license or an operator's license, but you can't have both.

That's a new law, passed by the 1959 Legislature and effective last September 18. It replaces a former vehicle code section which permitted a driver to have in his possession both kinds of licenses.

If you now hold both a chauffeur's and an operator's license, the law requires that you surrender one of them to the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

If you are a professional driver (operator of a truck or bus, for example), you naturally will want to keep your chauffeur's license. It entitles you to drive both commercial and pleasure vehicles.

If you are merely a pleasure driver, then an operator's license is all you will need.

The procedure to follow if you now hold two different licenses is outlined by DMV:

Go to the nearest motor vehicles office and sign a form stating that you are voluntarily surrendering one of the licenses. Or mail the unneeded license to Department of Motor Vehicles, Division of Drivers Licenses, P. O. Box 2590, Sacramento, along with a statement that you are surrendering it in compliance with the new law.

Coffee Houses Branching Out

Los Angeles area coffee houses, a thriving new enterprise brought about by a segment of a new generation disatisfied with the world and most things in it, have come into their own with a promotion department.

The organization, calling itself FIM, has compiled a booklet of coupons good for a free cup of the most exotic coffee at 30 of the area's 45 establishments. The passes come complete with map showing the coffee-house locations.

Art galleries, modern jazz, acting workshops, modern dance, and folk music are among the principal diversions. Talking and thinking similarly are rated high. A $2 fee is charged for the passes and information by FIM, Lox 2425, Santa Monica.
